See alſo under "Old and New Teſt.," col. 125. "New Teſt.," col. 745. "Daniel," col. 682.

The writers on the Apocalypſe have been divided into three great claſſes:—

1. Thoſe who aſſert that all, or nearly all, the prophecies contained in it have been already fulfilled in the cataſtrophes of the Jewiſh nation and the old Roman Empire, the early triumphs of Chriſtianity, &c.—ſuch as Alcaſar, Grotius, Hammond, Boſſuet, Calmet, De Sacy, Eichhorn, Herder, Ewald, and moſt of the German writers; Moſes Stuart, Dr. Davidſon, Deſprez, &c.
2. Thoſe who make the whole, except the primary viſion and letters to the ſeven churches, relate to things yet future, ſuch as Ribera, S. R. Maitland, C. Maitland, Burgh, Dr. J. H. Todd, B. Newton, &c.
3. Thoſe who conſider it as prefiguring in detail the chief events affecting the Church and Chriſtendom, whether ſecular or eccleſiaſtical, from St. John's time to the

The expenſes of this valuable work were defrayed by Paul V. and Gregory XV. Beſides the Hebrew words in the Bible which are in the body of the book with the Latin verſion over againſt them, there are in the margin the differences between the Septuagint verſion and the Vulgate; ſo that at one view may be ſeen where the three Bibles agree and where they differ; and at the beginning of every article there is a kind of vocabulary, giving the ſignification of each Hebrew word, and affording an opportunity of comparing it with the Syriac, Arabic, and Chaldee. A new edition was publiſhed at London, 1747, 4 vol. folio, edited by Romaine; but it is not conſidered ſo accurate as the original edition, 1621.
